"And others save with fear pulling them out of the fire."—Jude 23.

Multitudes all around us are streaming down to Hell. We must earnestly strive to awaken them, show them their danger, and save them from sinking into the bottomless pit. "Win Another" is the war-cry of the Campaign now in progress throughout the Territory.

Which Will Fit Salvation Soldiers for Their Warfare
Against the Powers of Evil

NO. III.—PROPHECY

Sunday, John 21:15-25. "Lovest thou Me?" Love is the only authority for any work for God. Without love any form of service for Him is useless. It is when love fails that service goes down. But love, however, feeble and fitful, purifies the gold of all its dross and makes the one who loves His Lord pure, true, lovely and lovable in His sight.

Monday, Prov. 22:1-16. "He that hath a bountiful eye shall be blessed." Generosity is a matter of heart, not of money, for some who have comparatively little give most in proportion to their means. Giving is largely a matter of training, so teach yourself now to give regularly out of your little, and God may entrust you with larger sums to use for Him.

Tuesday, Prov. 22:17-29. "Be not thou one of them . . . that are sureties for debts." "Why are you so badly off?" a man in good employment was asked. "I stood security for a friend and he ran away and left me to pay a large sum which I am still paying off." Now, if the man who stood security had followed the advice in our portion he would never have done such a foolish thing. Be on your guard and learn from his mistake.

Wednesday, Prov. 28:1-12. "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he." "I hate evil thoughts," said a girl, "but what can I do to prevent them?" Says the old proverb, "Birds may fly over your head, but you need not allow them to build nests in your hair." The Apostle Paul says, "Whatsoever things are pure . . . lovely . . . of good report . . . think on these things." So the evil thoughts will fly away, for your mind will not have room for good and bad.

Thursday, Prov. 28:13-22. "Be thou in the fear of the Lord all the day long." This will not mean a strained, unnatural life, but a quiet meeting with God and trusting Him moment by moment. Then as difficulty or temptation come a lifting of the heart to claim power and help. Also a quick word of praise for mercies big or little. Just a beautiful companionship and friendship which grows better all the time.

Friday, Prov. 23:26-35. "Who hath babbling? . . . They that tarry long at the wine." A young man from a good home took to drink and was fast becoming a confirmed drunkard. A friend trying to help him followed him one evening, and wrote down all he said while under the influence of drink. Next day the young fellow read the silly, wicked things he had uttered while drunk, and was so ashamed that he never touched drink again.

Saturday, Prov. 24:1-16. Ignorance is no excuse. Professing what we do as Salvationists we are bound as well as expected to go after needy souls. To say, "Behold we knew it not" (v. 12), will be no excuse, for it is our business to seek the lost. Naturally they will not come to us, so we must hunt them out in the public houses and streets as well as in their homes. They are waiting to be found.

THE popular meaning of the word prophet is "one who foretells future events." You will agree that to be able to do this, one must be wonderfully gifted. Just so, but the name of prophet is not only given to such persons, but it includes all those who speak to their fellow-men in the name of the Lord.

Words of Entreaty

Whether their message is to one person, to a congregation, to a town, to a nation, or to the whole world—they are prophets in the sense that they speak words of entreaty, warning, or comfort to their hearers.

The gift of prophecy is the most common of all among God's people, and it is the gift most to be desired. Paul urges the Corinthians to "Follow after charity, and desire spiritual gifts, but rather that ye may prophesy." Some of the people in those days strengthened to fight the battles of the Lord.

You will plainly see that this gift is greatly to be desired, if we are to be of any use in the service of God. Do not think that in order to prophesy you must study elocution and aim at becoming an eloquent orator. It is a gift we may all possess. Prophesying does not mean "making up something to say," and then delivering a flowery sermon as though you were reciting at a concert. Any naturally gifted person could do that, and do it better, perhaps, than many of God's servants. The humblest believer in Christ, however, if spiritually gifted, would be able to speak with far more effect concerning the things of God than the cleverest of the world's orators.

Words Spoken in the Spirit

There is something miraculous about the words that are spoken in the Spirit.

Signposts to Salvation

1. CONFESS AND FORSAKE SIN.

"He that covereth his sins shall not prosper, but whoso confesseth and forsaketh them shall find mercy."—Prov. xxviii. 11.

2. TURN TO GOD AND ASK FOR HIS MERCY.

"Let the wicked . . . return unto the Lord, and He will have mercy upon him."—Is. lv. 7.

3. RECEIVE JESUS BY FAITH INTO YOUR HEART.

"As many as received Him to them gave He power to become the sons of God."—John i. 12.

4. BEGIN TO OBEY GOD IN EVERYTHING.

"Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?"—Acts ix. 6.

5. CONFESS WITH YOUR LIPS WHAT GOD HAS DONE IN YOUR HEART.

"If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus and shalt believe in thine heart . . . thou shalt be saved."—Rom. x. 9.

wanted to possess remarkable gifts which would make them conspicuous in the Church. The gift of tongues was one of these, but when those who possessed it got up to speak no one could understand them. Paul points out, therefore, that it would be better to speak only five words that could be understood by all than ten thousand in an unknown tongue.

A Straightforward Testimony

Those who spoke in tongues might be greatly edified themselves, but their hearers would be mystified. The best thing for all to seek, therefore, is the gift of prophecy, for "He that prophesieth speaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation and comfort."—1 Cor. xiv. 3. That is to say, he who gives a straightforward testimony as to the saving and keeping power of God is helping to build up the faith of his fellow Christians, and encouraging them to press on.

Prophesying means saying the right thing at the right moment, as you are inspired by the Spirit of God. Then those who are dead in sin will be quickened, and your comrades will be

it. In the thirty-seventh chapter of Ezekiel you will find an account of how the prophet spoke to a number of dry bones. He tells of the result as follows: "And as I prophesied, there was a noise, and behold a shaking, and the bones came together, bone to his bone."

Like Dry Bones

Many people may be likened spiritually to dry bones. Their souls are shrivelled up, and they are without any life from God, because they are living in sin. God sends His prophets to speak to them. It may be only a few words, a Salvation song, perhaps, but the result is that they get convicted. Then there is a noise. They cry out, "What must I do to be saved?" and then they die to sin and begin to live unto God.

Is it not a wonderful thing to have a gift like this? Do you not want to possess it? Ask God to give it to you, and then go to the Open-Air Meeting and speak to the people as the Holy Ghost instructs you. You will then be working in co-operation with God for the Salvation of souls, and the coming of His Kingdom.

The Difference

Two pilgrims walked the selfsame road
Beneath the selfsame stars,
One picked up stones to make his load,
And cherished unhealed scars;
Too bright he found the sun by day,
Too chill the breeze at night;
"No faith, no hope I find," he said,
"For naught that is, is right!"

The other pilgrim marched along
And found a myriad flowers.
He tuned his ear to the wind's song,
He watched the flashing showers
Refresh the eager, thirsty ground.
"How wonderful," he cried,
"This pilgrimage on which I'm bound,
And there is Heaven, beside!"

The "Win Another" Method Small Efforts Which Produced Mighty Results

Who can tell what the result will be of a word, a smile, a "God bless you" or perhaps the passing on to a stranger or friend, a copy of the "War Cry," or some good book. Hundreds of years ago a pedlar sold a lad a tract called the "Bruised Reed," which led to his conversion. That lad was Richard Baxter. His writings were the means of rousing, amid scores and hundreds of others, the soul of Philip Doddridge. This man wrote a book called "The rise and progress of religion," and it was the means of quickening that illustrious advocate of the slave, William Wilberforce. Wilberforce's "Practical Christianity" brought Leigh Richmond to Jesus, and Richmond's "Dairyman's Daughter" has brought multitudes to the footstool of mercy. Could we extinguish the results of Baxter's conversion, thousands of thousands of sainted ones would be plucked from their thrones of joy in Heaven.

If you are tempted, my Comrade, to think your effort for God too small to be of any consequence to His Kingdom, remember the parable of the tiny mustard seed.

In Evil Long

The Conversion of a Noted Song
Writer

As a young man, John Newton, who wrote many songs, including "In evil long I took delight," passed through various religious phases, but at length became an infidel in his notions and a profligate in his conduct. He devoted himself to a seafaring life, but before he was of age, deserted his ship, and was brought back to England as a felon, kept in irons, degraded from his office as a midshipman, and publicly whipped. Sin and severe punishment only hardened him more and more.

During a voyage he read "Thomas a Kempis," and the thought struck him, "What if these things should be true?" That night the vessel was almost wrecked in a terrible storm. On the following day, exhausted with pumping, he stepped the ship for some time, and during these hours solemnly reflected on his former life, his scoffing at Scripture, his vicious habits, and the dangers he had encountered. The ship outrode the storm, and the awakened sinner was saved to serve God as a minister.

The "nevertheless" of Sin (2 Kings 3:3; 13:6).

The "nevertheless" of Supplication (uttered Neh. 4:9; answered, Ps. 31:22; 106:44).

GRACE HOSPITAL, WINNIPEG

THE farewell of Brigadier Mrs. Payne, who has been Superintendent of Grace Hospital for the past fourteen years, calls for a review of the work done in this splendid Institution during that period. The "Grace", under the Brigadier's able supervision, has attained a very high standing amongst Maternity Hospitals on this continent, and its reputation has spread far and wide. When we think of the Grace, we think of efficient service and kindly human sympathy allied to true religion, a combination which is powerful indeed in ministering to others.

A Threefold Purpose

The main activities of the Hospital are threefold and can be classified as follows:

1. To provide medical treatment in time of need for friendless girls and women regardless of nationality or religion.
2. To make like provision for mothers among the deserving poor.
3. To receive paying patients who prefer the treatment and convenience the Hospital affords to the best arrangements that can be made at home at such times.

The main building is exclusively for the accommodation of private, semi-private, and public ward patients. The wing is used for our women and girls' rescue work, better known perhaps as our "Social Service Dept.," while the younger children of mothers who otherwise would be prevented from taking advantage of the comforts and conveniences of the Hospital are cared for in the Annex.

How these objects have been faithfully carried out during the past fourteen years was interestingly told to a "War Cry" representative by Brigadier Mrs. Payne.

Care of the Highest Order

"It has been the aim of the hospital," she said, "to provide professional and nursing care of the highest order. A large proportion of the city doctors bring their own private patients into Grace Hospital for care and treatment. In addition to this, there is, of course, the social side of hospital work, which reaches to the less fortunate portion of humanity. The principle governing Grace Hospital in all cases is service to humanity. The nurses here are trained and taught the idea of service as an outstanding feature.

A Review of the Work done during the past Fourteen Years Under the Supervision of Brigadier Mrs. Payne.

and social service, we have a training school for nurses, in which there is given a 15 months' course in obstetrical nursing which thoroughly qualifies for that particular branch of the work.

"During my 14 years' service in Grace Hospital, there have been: Admittances of patients and babies, 27,134; births, 13,622; total days' treatment for all, 783,662. On the social side, which the hospital, also conducts, we have received and helped in our institution 2,106 young women; and I may say that the work in this connection lies very near to my heart. Some of the incidents connected with our service to those who most need it are very sad. It has been the mission of Grace hospital, in this branch of its work, to offer hope to the despairing and discouraged. And, because the great fundamental principle of The Salvation Army is change of heart, we are glad to report that 1,800 of these 2,106 young women have within the walls of this institution professed to have been converted.

"We have had a total of 13,622 births.

The number of days' treatment for all children in the institution has been 338,643.

"For nineteen months in connection with the Hospital, during which period about 1,800 babies were born, not a single adult death occurred, which record stands out in the history of the Institution. One interesting feature connected with our children's work is that during the War Period we made arrangements whereby children could be taken in and cared for in the Annex formerly used by the Juvenile Court, whose mothers could not have been able to receive the necessary care at home during confinement because of the provision made for other smaller members of the family. It was a common occurrence for a woman to come in with three children and go out with four. The assistance that the hospital has been able to render in this particular has been of untold value to the general public and it has called forth a good deal of sympathy.

Found Homes for Children

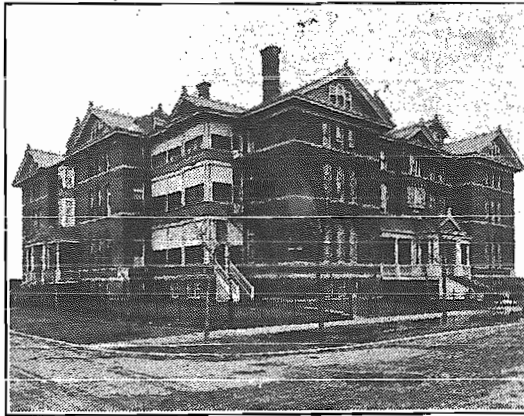

Then we have cared also for children whose mothers have been employed in domestic service and who pay a small sum monthly for the support of the child from their allowance or wage, and then for the future welfare of the children we have been able to devise some very excellent homes into which they have been adopted and their foster-parents have received the very best of care for an advantageous start in life, which is their due.

"The new-born babies receive daily care and attention, and the average number of all classes receiving daily care is 125 per day.

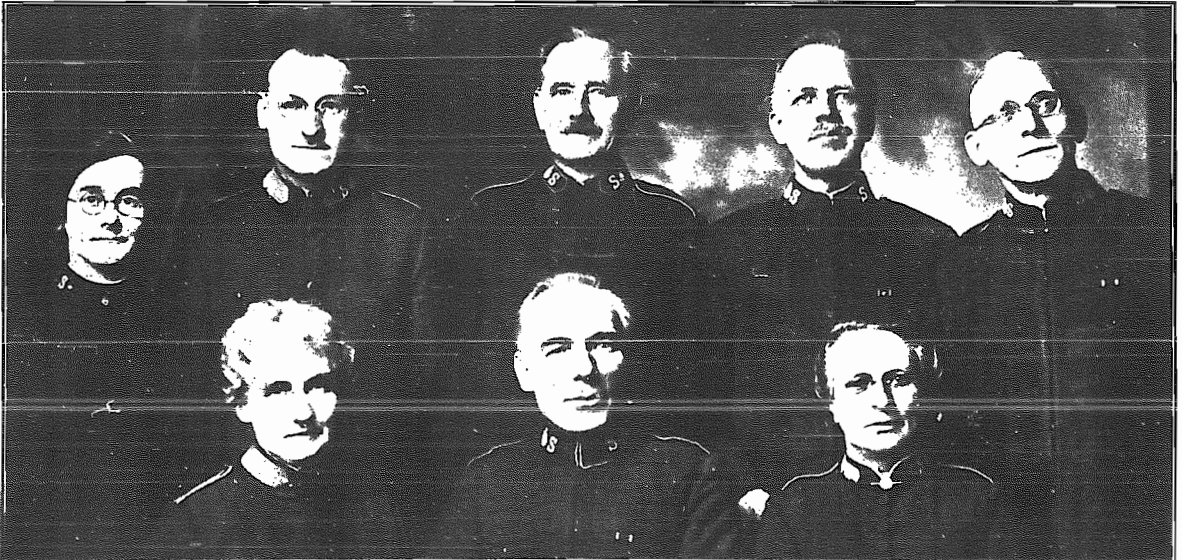

Work of Joyous Service

"The suffering of humanity has never been too hard nor too difficult or painful for my own heart to reach. I have considered the work at Grace Hospital one of joyous service. The associations have been helpful and an education to those who have worked here. But the unfortunate people have claimed more of my time and attention because I believe that every person in this world should have a chance and through the guiding of the Holy Spirit and the opportunity that Grace Hospital affords us, we have seen many turned to lives of goodness and usefulness. The long hours that I have put in, and the responsibilities that I have borne after all has brought the greatest pleasure and comfort to my own heart more than anything else in the world could give me. It has given me a sympathetic touch and has helped me to reach out and feel that there are none beyond help.

Inside the walls of this Institution we have seen many touching reconciliations take place. We have seen mothers and of work is a Marriage Ceremony taking place in the little sitting-room, where two people are fulfilling the laws of matrimony for better for worse; and at a side entrance we have only to look and see an old couple in search of a girl who has been missing for some time, and we find that inside of our Institution with comfortable surroundings is the long lost daughter. This child becomes reconciled to the parents and the parents to the child. Then again we are reminded of the love of our Heavenly Father who embraces all even though they have erred from the right path.

In another Department of Hospital life we hear the announcement of twin babies, a boy and a girl, born to a happy mother and father possibly with good prospects and a joyous outlook upon life; and a listening ear has to be given to another corner where there is a broken-heart suffering from a sad bereavement, for the little one has been taken. Thus the lives of the Officers of Grace Hospital have been lived, full of loving toil and service with desires that expand to reach and be of valuable assistance to all classes, independent of nationality or creed.

cosy little cot such as should be the privilege of all God's little ones. We can only feel that the words of the Master are applicable in such cases, "In-as-much as ye have done it unto the least of these, my little ones, ye have done it unto Me." The nurses love to do it. They are here for service. The doctors love to do it because it is part of their work towards the alleviating of human suffering.

"I would like to put on record my personal appreciation of the help of Lieutenant-Governor and Lady Aikins, His Worship the Mayor and the members of the city council, and the community at large. Winnipeg for the past 14 years has been my parish, with its joys, its sorrows, its social problems, and difficulties.

"To the doctors in general, who have been regular attendants and have brought their patients here, I extend thanks for their assistance and the interest which has enabled us to carry on the good work which carries out the fundamental principles of The Salvation Army.

"I would like to commend the work of the nursing staff and officers of the hospi-hathers reconciled to their daughters. We have seen little children cared for when possibly their little frames bespoke the anguish of not receiving proper care, and it has been a joy to see those little children cared for under professional men, children's specialists. It was truly a joy to be able to look upon their faces with the baby smile such as only comes from personal care and comfort and helps to make child life happy.

"With regard to the girls, the service that we have been able to give is remarkable. Many times we have witnessed such sights as five and sometimes ten of those broken-hearts kneeling at the Mercy Seat and resolving by the help of God that they are going to live better lives. This has enabled us to realize that The Army methods of dealing with the poor and the broken-hearted are most effective.

Over 700 marriages have taken place, and others have been returned to friends and placed in comfortable ways of living in the years that I have been here.

"A very interesting day spent at the Hospital with the different Departments

Interior view of the new laundry, opened last summer, showing the electric mangle in operation.

"During the years that I have known the Institution, I do want to put on record that the spirit of The Army has been exemplified by every Officer and nurse who has worked inside its walls, and we are not afraid to say that it has stood as a monument for good in the eyes of the general public. My feelings are best expressed in a statement to the effect that the Grace Hospital as a Salvation Army Institution is an active embodiment of the highest teachings, desires and principles of The Salvation Army.

"A new Department has recently been opened and that is a prenatal clinic for the benefit of expectant mothers. We have already had about 30 who have taken advantage of this free clinic every Wednesday morning, receiving medical advice and nursing care, thus preparing them for the expected advent of their little ones into the world.

"There are cases of desertion which frequently come under our notice. Mothers with a dark outlook upon life, discouraged and sad have left their babies on our door-step. While the circumstances are almost too sad to relate, on one occasion we found a baby about three days old lying beside a garbage can in the rear part of the building.

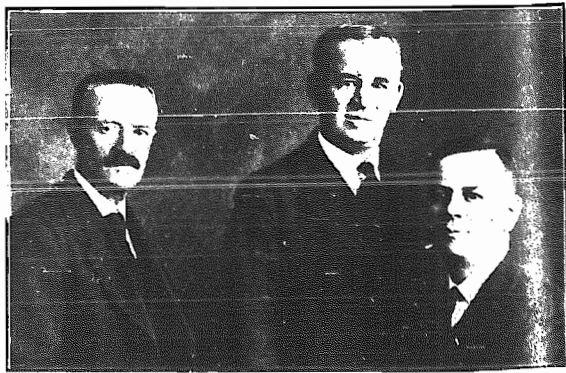

"The little chilly form was discovered lying there by one of the nurses on night-duty and at an early hour was brought from its uncomfortable surrounding to a tal who have stood nobly by me with their faithful and earnest desire to serve and further to express my profound respect and esteem for the late Dr. Charles E. Suggden. Memories such as he left with us can never die. And I would like to mention particularly Dr. J. E. Coulter,

"Finally, I would acknowledge with heartiest gratitude the valued advice and assistance at all times of the Territorial Headquarters. Commissioner Chas. Rich and Mrs. Rich, and Colonel and Mrs. Knott."

"Win Another" Campaign Launched at Medicine Hat

Brigadier Sims Leads Rousing Weekend Campaign—Four Soldiers Enrolled—Five Seekers for Salvation

(By wire)

The "Win Another" Campaign was launched by Brigadier Sims and taken up enthusiastically by the Medicine Hat Soldiers most of whom have promised to win another. Glorious weekend Meetings with souls converted.

The Brigadier commissioned the Bugle Band of the Life-Saving Scouts, dedicated a baby, enrolled four recruits and publicly presented badges to four Corps Cadets who have passed the higher grade examination. He also met the Young People's Local Officers and Corps Cadets in Council and gave a special talk to nearly four hundred children in the Citadel. It was a busy and glorious weekend Campaign.

Four souls came to the Mercy-Seat on Sunday night for Salvation, making five for the Campaign. Hallelujah!

Editorial Changes in the States

Lieut.-Colonel Robert Sandall, who for several years past has been Editor-in-Chief at New York, has now farewelled and is appointed Editor of the Sydney (Australia East) "War Cry."

The Colonel, with Mrs. Sandall, sailed from San Francisco on January 28. He will assume his new duties after taking a six months' furlough, which has been granted for health reasons.

Lt.-Colonel Fletcher Agnew who for the past four years has been Editor of the Chicago "Cry" has been appointed by the General to succeed Col. Sandall.

Lt.-Colonel Taylor, the Field Secretary, launched the "Win Another" Campaign at Brandon, the 38th Anniversary of the opening of the Corps being celebrated at the same time. The Meetings were full of enthusiasm and blessing and twelve souls came to the Penitent-Form. We hope to publish a full report next week.

Is Brought Before People of Winnipeg in Striking Manner at Farewell Meeting of Brigadier Mrs. Payne Presided over by Sir James Aikins

SOME very warm tributes were paid to Brigadier Mrs. Payne at her farewell Meeting in Winnipeg, which was presided over by Sir James Aikins, Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba.

Lt.-Commissioner Rich said that she had done a most excellent work at the "Grace" and that the influence of the service she had rendered was Dominion-wide.

"I am always proud of the splendid women of The Army," he said. "I sometimes think that The Army's place is that everyone should take a deeper interest in work of this sort and in our social problems in the West.

Lt.-Colonel Taylor, the Field Secretary, speaking on behalf of the Officers of the Territory, paid a very warm tribute to the work of Mrs. Payne. He recalled an incident of her early days of Army warfare when, as a young recruit, she had bravely marched in the procession when roughs were attacking the Salvationists.

Proud of that Recruit

"I feel proud of that recruit tonight," said the Colonel. "All through her career as an Officer she has manifested the same dauntless spirit. She does not faint on the field of battle, but sings and keeps going on. She has had trials and sorrows, but they have served to broaden her sympathies and increase her desire to help all in need. She has indeed a worthy record of service and we hope she may be spared for many years to continue her ministrations to others."

Mr. McMillan spoke of his first visit to the "Grace" when serving on a Grand Jury. The unanimous opinion, after inspecting the Institution, had been, "There is management."

"The work of The Salvation Army in Grace Hospital has been brought before the people of Winnipeg in an impressive way," he said, "and we will always be under a debt of gratitude to Mrs. Payne."

Dr. Coulter, representing the Medical Staff of the Hospital, expressed the deep regret of the doctors that Mrs. Payne was farewelling.

"The individuality of Mrs. Payne has put Grace Hospital where it is today," he said. "It is in a class by itself in the Dominion of Canada, so far as Maternity Hospitals are concerned. We are looking to the successor of Mrs. Payne to maintain the high standards set and preserve the traditions of the Hospital, and promise her every help within our power to make the work a success."

Mrs. Hamilton told some "human interest" stories, concerning the Social Service Department of the Hospital: stories which gripped the attention of all present and made them vividly realise what a beacon of hope the Hospital is to unfortunate girls.

She also told of the good work done in looking after the children of mothers who were in the Hospital; of the care given to soldier's families; and the taking in of good families.

Adjutant Ruth Lister, speaking on behalf of the Hospital Staff, told of her close association with Mrs. Payne during eight and a half years.

"I am thankful that I was ever sent to Grace Hospital and had the privilege of working beside such a noble woman as Mrs. Payne," she said. "It is a most beautiful and Christ-like work which is carried on within the walls of the Institution. The Staff have worked together like a happy family and we feel that in saying goodbye to our Superintendent we are losing a mother."

The Joy of Service

The final address was given by Mrs. Payne. First she expressed her deep appreciation to the Commissioner, and the Chief Secretary for their help and sympathy, and then paid a tribute to the Hospital Staff who had been untiring and devoted in their service.

She also praised the Medical Staff, saying that they never lost an opportunity of extending a helping hand in any time of need.

Some facts and figures were then given which showed what had been done in the Hospital during her term as Superintendent.

"The joy of service has been wonderful," were her concluding words.

Archdeacon McEthan closed the gathering with prayer.

During the evening Mr. Davidson Thompson and Mrs. Adj. Clarke soloed and the Citadel Band, under Bandmaster Henry Merritt, rendered music.

BRIGADIER MRS. PAYNE

more due to the work and devotion of its women than anything else. Mrs. Payne ranks among our ablest and most devoted Women's Social Officers and the work she has done at the "Grace" has placed that Institution on a high pinnacle and is in itself a worthy monument to her untiring service for humanity."

The Commissioner then introduced Sir James Aikins as a splendid friend of The Army and particularly of Grace Hospital.

Well Endowed for Work

Sir James paid a high tribute to Mrs. Payne, saying that she was well endowed naturally for the service she had been called on to render in The Army. Experience had also had its share in preparing her for the work; the sorrows she had gone through serving to give her a heart of sympathy for those in need of comfort and a mother-heart for little children who needed loving. He spoke of her untiring industry, her application to duty, her habits of economy and her gifts of leadership, which so admirably equipped her for her high and onerous position.

All this, however, he said, was but the outward manifestation of that inward power which is obtained in the secret place of the Most High, the open reward which God gives to those of His servants who seek Him in prayer.

"It is a wrench for her to leave the work she loves so well, and has carried on so efficiently for the past fourteen years," he continued, "yet it may be the Providential ordering of her life which will result in yet greater service for humanity."

His Worship Mayor Webb spoke of his personal appreciation of the work of The Salvation Army with which he had often come into contact. He particularly appreciated the work of Grace Hospital and thought the citizens of Winnipeg were under a deep debt of gratitude to Mrs. Payne for the work she had done.

Referring especially to the Social Service Department and the help extended to unfortunate girls, he said that the cause of the conditions which Mrs. Payne and those associated with her devoted their lives to remedying was perhaps due to the community's neglect. He urged

The promotion is announced of Brigadier Tudge, International Immigration Inspector, to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Congratulations!

"The Old Wells," a selection rendered by the Territorial Musical Crusaders at their inaugural Meeting, so convicted a member of the audience, evidently a backslider, that he was deeply troubled for days. At length the convicted one attended the recent "Day of Devotion" where at the Mercy-Seat he was found among the seekers. The advice given by the singers, "Go back to the old wells, where the waters are sweet," might well be followed by other wanderers.

Inspired by the "Win Another" Campaign slogan, one of the men Cadets recently tackled a fellow passenger on a street car about his soul. Observing that the enquiry was bearing fruit he alighted with the man, accompanied him to his room and there had the joy of leading him to Christ.

Robert, the son of Ensign and Mrs. McEachern, Fort Frances, recently met with an accident in which he was badly scalded, necessitated the care of a doctor. We trust that the little lad will soon be well again.

Northward bound, Adjutant W. Kerr left Winnipeg for The Pas last Thursday, where, during the annual dog derby, he will conduct special Meetings at Manitoba's most northerly Corps.

Lieutenant Richards and Envoy Johnstone have gone on a lengthy tour of the lumber and mining camps in Northern Alberta. Recently the Lieutenant, whilst visiting a small town in Alberta, was requested to conduct the funeral of a child, the resident minister being sick. The Lieutenant readily agreed although the journey to the cemetery meant a trip of fifty miles over snow-covered roads.

Captain Nyrenor and Lieutenant Carswell left Winnipeg last week to visit the lumber camps in north-west Ontario. With cornet, concertina, and a banjo between them the Captain and Lieutenant hope to take the message of Salvation in music and song to the workers in these lonely border regions. The Officers will be away about six weeks.

We have received word to the effect that our Comrade, Commandant Hamilton, who was compelled to return to the Jubilee Hospital, Victoria, for treatment, is much improved. We thank God for this news.

More New Things for 1925

By THE GENERAL

"And He that sat upon the Throne said, Behold, I make all things new."—Revelation xxi. 5.

THIS manufacture of New Things for the New Year is a very interesting business. I want to add a few words to what I said on the subject last week. The more I think about the wonderful statement at the head of this column, the more I see that for those who seek Him God does really make Things New, things which are very important and precious. Let me mention one or two others:

He will make new the Will of all who surrender to Him. Many good people have no end of trouble with their own ingrained unwillingness and self-will, their clinging devotion to their own way, and thus—though some of them undoubtedly have been converted by God's grace—they are never at peace—never really know what inward peace means! Their Will is not one with His Will.

Made Strong by Grace

Well, this strange and wayward thing we call our Will is one of the All Things God proposes to make new if it is surrendered to Him. He begins the glorious work of subduing and renewing it the moment we say to Him: "Make me what Thou wouldst have me to be—I bargain for nothing—I make no conditions—I do not ask whither Thou wilt guide me. I will be what Thou wilt make me and all Thou wilt make me, and to walk in the path Thou wilt make for my feet, and to carry the Cross Thou wilt lay upon me." He begins, I say, renewing our Will in the likeness of His own the moment we come to that point, and never leaves off till He has finished the work.

He will Make a Clean Heart for every unsanctified one who seeks it by faith. That is one of His most precious and lovable creations! It is one of the most wonderful works of His hands, one which is most noted for its beauty and originality! No one else can approach Him in the power and skill of this cleansing of the whole man and making the very springs of our nature pure with the purity that His Spirit imparts. He is the Mighty Sanctifier!

So that when I hear the children of God crying out about those things in their lives which bring them into condemnation, and when sometimes the Soldiers say to me, "O General, it is my own heart that is the cause of my troubles—that is where my failure really is," I do not begin to scold them, or counsel them to cut off this or that bit of worldliness, or impurity or other sin; no, I try to bring them to Him who sits upon the Throne and makes All Things new, so that, there and then, He may create in them another heart, a clean, a pure, a sanctified heart. I know He will do it.

He will make the soul He thus sanctifies show for the Beauty of Holiness. True Holiness is not an austere, cold, repelling thing. It is a thing of Beauty. It is not something apart which seems occupied with the heavens when it ought to be doing the humble duties of earth. There is added to it by the Maker humility and meekness, self-forgetfulness, strength to endure the contradiction of wrongdoers, kindness, patience, forbearance, hope. These are the things by which the great Worker adds a precious finish to His work of righteousness and Holiness. He makes the old divided powers one in love and purity, and then robes them with these Beauties of Holiness, so that lives which formerly revealed no charm or grace now show how He can manifest His glory in the experiences of ordinary men.

He who makes all things new will give strength to our convictions of the great truths we have accepted.

Amongst the great needs of our time are men and women who have deep convictions about the things of the soul. By conviction I mean such a clear inward realization of any truth which has the force of an assurance or is the outcome of consciousness. When, for example, we speak of conviction of sin, we mean that we are conscious of that sin, conscious that it is an evil and perilous thing, and that our own sin is for us the most evil and perilous of all. Well, such convictions are the work of God, whether they have to do with sin or Salvation, or grace, or purity, or truth, or judgment, or everlasting bliss or everlasting woe. He makes these convictions in the heart yielded to Him. He roots with His spirit of Truth. They influence all our lives. They make us firm in our faith, sincere in our professions, fearless in our testimony. They enable us to speak with authority to those who doubt God or are disloyal to Him, and to say with boldness that we know Him in whom we have believed; that while the principles for which we stand are ours by faith, and ours by experience, above all they are ours by conviction. If only you will let God have His way with you, He will give you, even you, that glorious certainty.

Begins Renewing our Will

He who Maketh All Things New will make those who are Weak by nature Strong by grace. This is His doing, and it is indeed marvellous in our eyes. He makes the trembling soul fearless, He makes the foolish wise, and He makes the base things to triumph. He does it—I know that He does. I see it wherever I go. He gives power to those who have no power. They were powerless, but now in that which He makes they mount up, they stand the storm, they join the overcomers, they fight and win.

My dear Comrades, He wants disciples, servants, soldiers, friends, who say in the presence of every difficulty, "I can—I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Not "I can't, I can't. My evil temper . . . Yes, I know—but I can't. . . . My wayward, worldly love—I can't command it aright. . . . I know and despise it . . . but I can't overcome. . . . My selfishness, my littleness, my lightness, Oh, I can't—I can't. My doubts and fears. . . . Oh, I really have tried, but I can't overcome. . . . I can't, I can't . . . this . . . that . . . I can't!"

No, He who sits upon the Throne Makes Things New—He can make life victorious, and make its watchword—I can . . . I can. I CAN DO all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.

Launching of "Win Another" Campaign in Winnipeg

THE CHIEF SECRETARY Leads on at the Citadel and Headquarters' Staff at other Corps in the City—A Most Auspicious Start—Soldiers Pledge Themselves to Win Another and Many Surrenders are Recorded

GREAT interest and enthusiasm marked the opening of the "Win Another" Campaign at the Winnipeg Citadel Corps on Sunday. The Comrades were fortunate to have with them Colonel Knott, the Chief Secretary, to conduct the Salvation Meeting at night which resulted in the capture of three souls.

The Colonel was at his best; and in stressing the Campaign, his thrilling illustration of the efforts of three brave-hearted Alaskan men and the hardships they underwent on their thousand mile journey in order to bring relief to sufferers of a dread disease, was used by him as a striking lesson to stimulate the Comrades to greater efforts in the saving of souls. "Thousands of souls are dying around us, going down, down, down to the depths of Hell," he said. "Oh, if you would pledge yourself to win another, what a blessing it would bring."

The chief feature of the Meeting was the solemn dedication of all Salvationists present to the furtherance of the Campaign and after commending our efforts to God, all joined in the consecration song, "Take my life and let it be."

The singing of the Songsters, whose song intimated:

"The God of our Fathers

Is just the same today.

Able to deliver,

In His ever-loving way."

the plain, yet gripping story of his conversion, related by Brother Henderson of Calgary; Captain Irwin's proclamation of that great truth in song: "God's grace is as high as the Heaven"; and the Band's beautiful rendition of "At the Cross there's room," were all aids to the Colonel's address, "Enter ye in at the strait gate," and had their culmination at the Mercy-Seat where, after the most strenuous of prayer-battles, three souls sought forgiveness.—J.R.W.

FORTY-FIVE BOYS AND GIRLS VOLUNTEER FOR SALVATION

We were pleased to have Commandant Carroll with us, to launch the "Win Another" Campaign at St. James. Right from the commencement of the Holiness Meeting a hallowed spirit prevailed, and prepared our hearts for the Commandant's burning messages. During the Holiness Meeting Hon. Bandmaster Dancy gave his impressions of the Band Councils, and other Comrades testified to the blessings they had received at the Day of Devotion conducted by the Commissioner.

The Commandant spoke to the Juniors in the afternoon and, when the invitation was given, forty-five volunteered to the front. Three boys were about to go out, but as they neared the door they turned about and came to the Mercy-Seat.

At night, after the Scripture reading, the Band played three beautiful old hymn tunes, which deepened the spiritual tone of the Meeting. Lieutenant Bamsey was welcomed to the Corps by Lieutenant Halsey soloed. The Commandant followed this up with a powerful address "What think ye of Christ." Many were under deep conviction. A splendid wind-up followed when the Band played the "Purpose Firm" march which the Commandant interpreted as the "Win Another" march.—F. H.

SIX SEEKERS AT FORT ROUGE

Interesting Meetings were conducted at the Fort Rouge Corps all day on Sunday by Major Church and the Editorial staff. The "Win Another" theme was well emphasised and the Comrades much blessed and inspired. In the afternoon the Major gave some interesting experiences from his life in the military, including an account of the winning of one of the worst men in the regiment to Christ.

Mrs. Church assisted the Major at night when a good crowd gathered. Ensign Putt and Lieutenant Williamson each related how God helped them "win another" soul, and Mrs. Church told how, as a "War Cry" boomer, she was instrumental in winning two backsliders from a bar-room. Major and Mrs. Church sang an old-time Army song as a duet and their little daughter, Winifred, sweetly sang, "Will you take Jesus tonight?"

Salvation truths were clearly set forth by the Major in his address and in a closely contested Prayer-Meeting which followed a man and a woman knelt at the Mercy-Seat. Four Juniors also came forward. The Corps Cadets, Band, Songsters and Comrades gave excellent assistance throughout the day.

FIFTEEN DECISIONS AT NO. III

Brigadier and Mrs. Dickerson were scheduled to launch the "Win Another" Campaign at the No. III Corps. In the Holiness Meeting, Mrs. Dickerson took the lesson, reading from the epistle of Galatians, and dwelling on the word "opportunity." Several def-

Daily Health Talks

By Charles A. L. Reed, M.D.

Some Causes of Sore Eyes

"SORE EYES" is not a very scientific term.

It may cover a multitude of conditions.

I, however, use it here because it is generally taken to mean an inflammation of the lining membrane of the eyelids and of the covering membrane of the eyeball. Both are parts of the same membrane that the doctors speak of as the conjunctiva.

Inflammation of this membrane may occur from a variety of causes.

Motorists' eyes become irritated by long exposure to the wind, which strikes against the eyeball with a force that is in proportion to the speed of the car. The effects upon the eye bear an important relation to the duration of the exposure.

Dust, especially when its particles are not only physically but chemically irritating, sometimes causes very aggravated soreness of the eyes.

The most frequent causes of inflammation of the eyes, however, are germs.

You will be interested to know that probably the majority of all of the inmates of institutions for the blind have been made by vicious germs that have infected the eyes at the time of birth.

One of the most common means of spreading diseases of the eye in former times was the roller towel that was so much used in public places, such as hotels, restaurants and schools. You can readily understand that an individual with sore eyes, using such a towel, would deposit upon it germs which the next user of the same towel, would rub into his own eyes.

It is for these reasons that your health authorities—local and national—have ordered the discontinuance of the roller-towel in all public places. It is your duty to help these authorities in the discharge of this duty by reporting to them every violation of this wholesome regulation with which you may come in contact.

It is also of the highest importance that you should be personally circumspect in carrying out the same rule. If a member of your family, or other person under your control, is so unfortunate as to become afflicted with sore eyes, all linen, such as handkerchiefs, napkins, towels and pillowslips used by him should be sterilized by washing and boiling before being used by you or by any other person.

It is complete absence of this knowledge and of the habits based upon it that has resulted in the almost universal prevalence of infectious sore eyes, often with the resulting blindness, among the natives of foreign countries where hygiene has not reached that standard maintained in this country.

Nine Seekers for Salvation at Prince Albert

Gathering is turned into Prayer-Meeting when Service is led forward.

Captain and Mrs. Chapman. Although the weather has been exceptionally cold in this part of the country we have either held an Open Air Meeting or had a march around the city to attract people to our Hall, almost every night in the week. Recently in a week-night Meeting, God's Spirit was made manifest in our midst with the result that three souls knelt at the Cross and claimed Salvation. A bright meeting was also held on Saturday night, at the close of which two souls sought Salvation.

Sunday's activities were commenced by a Knee-drill at 7.00 a.m. after which Captain Chapman and Sergt. Dickie visited the Jail. The Holiness Meeting was well attended. An unusual sight was witnessed in the Salvation Meeting at night, when, during the singing of a song one of our comrades led a seeker to the Penitent Form. The Meeting was immediately changed into a Prayer Meeting, and our sister claimed the victory. The Meeting was then continued, and three other souls sought the Saviour.—B.W.

Campaigning in Sunny Valley

Staff-Captain Habbkirk Conducts a Week's Special Meetings with Excellent Results—Twenty-one Seek Salvation—Fathers, Mothers and Children at the Mercy-Seat

AS a result of a visit from the Gospel Car in the Northern Saskatchewan Division last summer, Staff-Captain Habbkirk was invited to conduct a week's special Meetings in Sunny Valley School House, which is twelve miles from Hanley station. Brother F. C. Hunt, who is in charge of the Sunday School in this district, arranged for services to be held from morning Meeting. It was a blessed time and four came out for Salvation. In the evening the weather was delightful and 125 people packed into the school house. Thirteen came out for Salvation. Among the converts four husbands and wives came together and the children of two of these couples came also. Brother Hunt volunteered to conduct a Prayer-Meeting

In this primitive looking sleigh Staff-Captain Habbkirk made the journey to Sunny Valley

Sunday, January 11, to Sunday, January 18, at 7 p.m. each evening and at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sundays. The seating capacity of the school is thirty; the average attendance during the Campaign was seventy-seven. Army methods were new to most of the people, but they soon adapted themselves, which made it easy for those in charge of the Meetings.

It was evident from the beginning that Brother Hunt had accomplished much good in the district, thus his influence in the Meetings was felt. Interest increased from Meeting to Meeting and when we gave an invitation, Saturday night, two girls volunteered and were immediately followed by the father and mother of one of them.

When we woke up Sunday morning there was a terrible blizzard blowing and we thought that we would not be able to hold any Meetings, but it cleared up so that it was safe to venture out and twenty-eight came to the on Wednesday evenings during the winter, although it means a drive of twenty-five miles to do so.

Several of the young people of Sunny Valley intend coming to the Y. P. Councils at Saskatoon.

I received a 'phone message to say one of our Officers was sick. The message came to a home five miles from where I was staying that night. One of the boys of this family volunteered to bring me the message and woke me at 3 a.m. He also said that if it was necessary for me to go to Saskatoon he would drive me to the depot—fourteen miles away—and catch the train that would leave in two hours' time.

Such was the interest manifested in The Army and our Meetings. Many hearty invitations were given to come back again and already arrangements have been made to return early in the spring. Watch for more reports from Sunny Valley.—H.C.H.

A Bandsman's Impressions of the Annual Bandsmen's Councils

"At evening to myself I say,
"My soul, where hast thou gleaned today?"

Thy labors how bestowest?

What hast thou rightly said or done?

What grace attained or knowledge won

In following after God?"

We gleaned in fields far from the main highway into different fields from the ones we are wont to "garner the crop for Him."

On the way to these new fields, He spoke to us, as we were led through byways and roads that were new to us. "Did not our hearts burn within us, while He talked with us by the way, and while He opened to us the Scriptures?"

Our first thought is: "What grace attained or knowledge won?" In answer we say, we were inspired with "trust that brings the triumph," we were strengthened with:

"Faith that changes fighting
Into Victory's ringing cheer,
Faith triumphant.

Knowing no defeat or fear."
What impressed us more than anything was the earnestness of the chief speakers; to encourage, to enlighten, and to impress on our minds that as "King's Musicians" and because of our exalted position in the Great Salvation Army, we should above all else, be men of honor.

We will never forget the night Session, when, as the earnestness of the Commissioner gripped everyone, how grizzled veterans, and 'teen-age Band boys sat on the edge of their chairs drinking in every word.

We thank God for the Divine inspiration which prompted our Leader to choose such a well-fitted text for his topic; truly it fitted the occasion. The novel method of instructing the delegates was very pleasing and successful.

We all anticipated "great things" and a "great day," because of our Leader's long association with the best of S. A. Bands in and around "the Hub," and our curist has just been whetted; we are already looking for more such days.

Hats off to those responsible for the catering. The arrangements were first class.

Praise God for the number who were "not disobedient to the Heavenly Vision." Great things are yet to be accomplished by our Bandsmen.

The Saturday night Musical Festival has been voted by Winnipeg critics "The best The Army has ever given." Winnipeg's music lovers—best in quality and variety." But hearken! the Commissioner announces that next year's will be bigger and better.—J.R.W.

CAPTAIN B. MARSHALL,
ELMWOOD

Captain Marshall was born in the little town of Sinaluta, Sask., but at the age of five years was taken by her parents to Vancouver, B. C. Her mother came in contact with The Army in this city and the future Captain commenced to attend the Juniors. One decision Sunday she gave her heart to God and soon after was enrolled as a Junior Soldier, later becoming a Senior Soldier and also a Corps Cadet and Company Guard.

After a time she felt that God wanted her to be an Army Officer, and a struggle started in her heart. She became dissatisfied with all around her and had a continual feeling of unrest. One day, taking her Bible, she asked God to reveal to her in some definite way if He really wanted her to leave all and follow Him, and these were the words upon which her eyes fell:

"Follow Me and I will make you fishers of men." After this there was no more doubt in her heart; she knew God wanted her to give her life for Officership in The Salvation Army.

Immediately she began to make excuses. She could never be an Officer—she could not speak—she was altogether too nervous, and these words came to her—"For thou shalt go to all that I send thee and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak." Still she rebelled. She looked at her position at the office, the position that for three long years she had been striving to obtain. She thought of her home, where she was the only child and where everything was easy, but again she heard the voice of Jesus—"Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men," and while she still hesitated she heard the warning words "See that ye refuse not Him that speaketh."

Days passed, and after much prayer, she made the great decision and fully consecrated herself to the service of God in The Army, and was able to say:

"So if in a still small Voice He calls To paths that I do not know,
I'll answer, dear Lord, with my hand in Thine,

I'll go where you want me to go."

The Captain says, "I can truthfully say I have never regretted the step which I took when I yielded my all to God. I have now been an Officer: two years and I have wonderful inward peace and happiness because I know, without a shadow of a doubt, that I am in the work and the place in which God would have me, and His Hand rules my life."

Calgary III

Three Young People Volunteered. Captain Stobart and Lieut. Leighton. Thursday, January 15, was the welcome Meeting of Lieutenant Leighton. This Meeting was well attended. All day Sunday we had splendid Meetings. At the close of the day's fighting, three young people gave themselves voluntarily to God. Two of the young people attended the Open-Air Meeting on the following Wednesday night. It was good to see them appearing in uniform.—E.M.F.

Ten Young People Seek Salvation at Selkirk

Major Smith Conducts Inspiring Meeting and Enrolls Two Soldiers

Last Tuesday our Soldier's Meeting took the form of a family gathering, and thirty-two Comrades sat down to supper. In the Meeting which followed, the Major enrolled two Senior Soldiers, and during the evening, twenty-two Commissions were handed out. Brother Habkirk was commissioned as Senior Sgt.-Major. His first duty was to welcome the new Soldiers. Sister Mrs. Chapman was commissioned Young People's Sergeant-Major, and spoke on behalf of the Y. P. Corps. Sister Mrs. Swain was commissioned as Treasurer, and Sister Sigurdson as Secretary. Our new Cradle Roll Sergeant is Sister Mrs. Hall.

The Major spoke on Self-denial, Sacrifice, and Service, in which he made a loving appeal to all alike for surrender that, in the fight, we may be used of God.

The Meetings on Sunday were seasons of rich blessing to our souls. In the Salvation Meeting at night our faith was rewarded at the end of the Prayer-Meeting in seeing Ten Young People kneeling at the Cross.

Army Helps Sufferers in Disastrous Lethbridge Fire

Driven out of a large apartment block in Lethbridge which burst into flames, a number of tenants were recently made destitute of means, clothing and shelter. The fire, which was one of the fiercest and most disastrous in the history of the city, resulted in no less than half a dozen firemen being sent to the hospital overcome by fumes or suffering from chill. Drenched to the skin, the firefighters courageously fought for several hours under the supervision of Fire Chief Hardy (a Salvationist) until the flames were under control.

Touched by the sad plight of the suffering citizens responded to an urgent call for relief issued by Adjutant Marsland, the Corps Officers, and food, clothing and bedding was immediately provided the homeless ones.

This prompt action on the part of the Adjutant called forth the approval of the citizens and resulted in many substantial donations being sent in, as well as furniture and other necessary articles for the unfortunate victims of the conflagration.

Port Essington

Sergt.-Major Stewart. Visitors are not frequent here during the winter months, but we have just had a visit from Captain F. Dorin of the Divisional Headquarters. The Rev. Pierce kindly invited the Captain to hold united Meetings in the Methodist Church and on Sunday night the place was filled and the message well received. Brother Edward McLean led the testimony Meeting, which proved a lively and inspiring season.

A united Meeting was also held on the Monday night in which visitors took part. The special Meetings have brought help and encouragement, and to those who came to tell us of the love of God we say, "Come again, and soon."

Vancouver IV

Ensign Fletcher and Captain Johnson. Our Y. P. Demonstration proved an enjoyable affair and the various items were well rendered. The outstanding feature was the building of "The Wondrous Cross" by a number of our Young People.

Recently our Soldiers and friends spent a pleasant evening over a well spread supper table. This was followed by a Meeting at which our Local Officers were commissioned.—E. G. H.

Launching "Win Another" Campaign in Winnipeg

initiations were given and many illustrations made of Bible characters who had embraced opportunities. She pointed out the need for service in connection with the Campaign, and the importance of grasping opportunities in order that we might "Win Another."

In the afternoon a profitable hour was spent. Commandant Lawson read the Scriptures and gave a very interesting talk from his book of long experience. The Young People in the Company Meeting downstairs also had a glorious time, the Spirit of God coming upon them, resulting in many decisions being made—about fifteen in all. Among these were several of the 'teen age scholars who led the way and made a brave surrender.

The night Meeting was the crowning time when, after a bright and powerful address by the Brigadier, the Comrades re-consecrated themselves for service and each received their badges. Commandant Lawson sang one of his songs, "Wonderful Jesus," and Mrs. Dickerson gave us a little of her experience. Altogether we had a glorious day.

Inspiring Meeting at No. VIII

At this Corps bright helpful Meetings were conducted morning and night by Mrs. Brigadier Whately and Mrs. Major Joy. The Holiness lesson was taken by Mrs. Joy which brought much inspiration to the Comrades. At night the "Win Another" spirit was much in evidence and a rousing Salvation Meeting ensued. The message given by Mrs. Brigadier Whately was greatly enjoyed and resulted in everyone resolving to do their best in the Campaign. The Officers, Comrades and Band rendered good assistance.

Five Seekers Come Forward at Norwood

Major Smith, the Divisional Commander, conducted the opening of the Campaign at Norwood where, assisted by the Officers and Comrades, inspiring Meetings were held. The Holiness Meeting was of a helpful character and the Comrades were much encouraged in their desire to win souls. The Major spoke to the Company Meeting scholars in the afternoon and delighted them with a banjo accompaniment to their singing. Four juniors accepted the invitation to come to Christ.

companion to their singing. Four juniors accepted the invitation to come to Christ.

In the Salvation Meeting at night, the Major was assisted by Mrs. Smith, whose message was much appreciated. A stirring Prayer Meeting resulted in one young person making a complete surrender.

Fourteen Decisions at No. II

Major Merrett conducted the launching of the Campaign at the North End Corps, the Major giving characteristic messages which were of much blessing to the Comrades. The Major was assisted by Commandant and Mrs. Hanna during the day and at night all were pleased to see Mrs. Merrett take part. The Company Meeting under Y.P.S.M. Potten is flourishing and during the afternoon, fourteen decisions were made by Juniors.

One Surrender at Weston

Lieut. Milley, the Corps Officer, conducted the Holiness Meeting in the morning at Weston and at night Commandant Hardy conducted a rousing Salvation Meeting. The Commandant took for his subject, "The Great White Throne," which brought conviction to the hearts of all unsaved. In the Prayer Meeting, one young woman surrendered. Welcome visitors who gave helpful testimonies during the evening were Brother and Sister Dave Nelson of the No. I Corps.

Ten Seek the Saviour at Elmwood

Brigadier Annie Park, the Women's Social Secretary, conducted the Meetings at the Elmwood Corps all day on Sunday. The Holiness Meeting was a season of blessing. The Company Meeting was visited by the Brigadier in the afternoon, her message helping several of the Juniors to decide for Christ, about nine in number.

Officers from various Social institutions assisted the Brigadier at night when a good send off was given to the "Win Another" Campaign. Captain and Mrs. Moll (Kildonan Home) sang duet, Captain Hargreaves (Brandon Children's Home) and Ensign Day (Catherine Business Girls Home), soloed and several stirring testimonies were given. The Brigadier spoke on "The Water of Life," following which one seeker came forward. The Meeting closed with a general consecration of the Comrades in the interests of the Campaign.

WINNIPEG CITADEL BAND VISITS STONEWALL

Splendid Program given to townsfolk in Municipal Hall—Sunday afternoon Meetings at Citadel growing in interest

A special car was chartered on Thursday evening last to convey the Winnipeg Citadel Band to Stonewall, twenty-two miles out; where, in the well appointed Municipal Hall, a splendid program was given. Some three hundred persons were present.

Mayor Arundel gave the Bandsman a most cordial reception, and in his opening remarks said the Band's visit was eagerly anticipated, as it provided the town with the best music it got during the year. His worship paid a high tribute to the work of the Army and related incidents which had come under his own personal notice where much good had been accomplished by the Organization.

The Chairman for the evening, Commandant Carroll was introduced by Sgt.-Captain Oske, who was responsible for the visit of the Band. The Commandant made a cheery president, and interspersed the items on the program, by relating several racy incidents of Salvation Army warfare.

Varied and bright, the program offered the residents of Stonewall a treat which they had not had for a long time. Their loud applause betokened their appreciation. Several Band selections and marches were given, including the "Soul's Awakening." Other items included a cornet duet by Bandsmen Weir and W. Merritt, a vocal solo by Songster Eva Merritt, and a Euphonium solo by Bandsman Percy Merritt. The Male Choir sang, "Which way Brother?" a piece which was vigorously applauded. The Army's Young People's work was represented by an exhibition of semaphore signalling, given by Life-Saving Guards

L. Fowler and V. Walker, and Sunbeam Edith Fowler gave a club swinging display.

An esteemed friend of The Army, Mr. McFarlane, voiced the appreciation of the audience. "Service and sacrifice," said he, "Are inseparable from an Army Band. In asking for the collection, he requested four prominent men of the town to take it up. This they did with alacrity. His Worship the Mayor, also lending a hand in the good work. Before the gathering closed Commandant Hardy gave a stirring testimony.

Keen hospitality was shown the Band during their visit, and several ladies of the town provided supper for the party.

The special Sunday afternoon Programs were continued at Winnipeg Citadel on Sunday, February 1.

As has been the case previously the Band and Vocal items on the program were taken from the works of one of the Great Masters and one of the modern Salvation Army composers.

The works of Handel and Bandsman Broughton were featured and the Band's efforts proved a genuine success.

Brother W. Henderson of Calgary proved himself an excellent and versatile chairman, and he, with Adjutant Steele, who gave a splendid and interesting talk, "Facts about the Bible," added much to the success of the fourth pleasant Sunday afternoon.—J.R.W.

Stirring Holiness Testimonies

Are Heard at United Meeting in Winnipeg Citadel Led by Major and Mrs. Carter—Three Seek the Blessing

The United Holiness Meeting in the Winnipeg Citadel on Friday night last was conducted by Major and Mrs. Carter, assisted by the Training Staff. A remarkably good crowd gathered, despite the fact that a howling tempest raged outside. There were three volunteers for Holiness.

A number of stirring Holiness testimonies were given during the evening by the members of the congregation, led on by Adjutant Steele. These were full of life and vigor, and reflected the beneficial influence which had been exerted on the speakers by the previous Monday's "Day of Devotion," not a few of whom had sought the blessing on that memorable occasion.

Amongst those to give their testimony was a grey-headed veteran of eighty-six one of the early pioneers of the West, who drove an ox-drawn wagon in the early settler days of Manitoba.

Mrs. Carter likened sin unto a deadly disease of the soul. Holiness, she said, was a state of spiritual health, and Christ the great Physician, who alone could bring this about by dealing with the root of the trouble. She invited the unsanctified to accept the remedy provided. The address given by the Major was both powerful and enlightening. Holiness, he said, was the great essential, this being contrary to the idea held by many that the seeking of the blessing was merely an optional matter. In every converted soul was created a longing after Holiness, and to this desire, it was God's good pleasure to respond in the fully cleansing of the soul.

At the conclusion of the Major's address, sin rose to his feet, and quickly making his way down the aisle, knelt at the Penitent Form. Two other men followed suit and claimed the victory before the Prayer Meeting closed.

Good News from Saskatoon

Campaign Going Well — Bandsmen Bring Back Glowing Reports of Councils—Corps Cadets Lead Spirited Meeting

Ensign and Mrs. Geo. Mundy The Divisional Commander, Staff-Captain Habkirk, visited the Citadel on Thursday, January 22nd, and delighted a splendid audience of Comrades of both city Corps and friends with his lecture, "Three Only," this being an account of the prison work of The Army.

Being under the weather, owing to the exposure suffered in administering to the needs of the firemen engaged in combatting the serious conflagration which broke out on Saturday morning, the Ensign was unable to be with us for the week-end Meetings. Mrs. Mundy carried on in noble style and was ably assisted by the Comrades. Bandsman J. Cole delivered the address in the afternoon Meeting and at night Ensign Canning gave the scriptural address following which one soul knelt at the Mercy Seat.

Under the guidance of Mrs. Staff-Captain Habkirk, the Corps Cadets conducted a bright and spirited Meeting the following evening.

Representatives of the Band who were privileged to attend the Bandsman's Councils in Winnipeg during the week-end presented some inspiring reports of the Councils at the Band practice held on Tuesday night. The impetus they received bespeaks of wonderful outpourings of God's blessings.

The Campaign is being carried on with great vigor and is achieving remarkable results. Many new names have been added to the prayer list, and shortly we hope to record their conversion.—G.H.

South Vancouver

Captain Hunter and Lieut. Puritch. Recently the Captain gave out the commissions for the year. After the commissions were distributed, Corps Cadet Nona Huggett sang very sweetly. The Captain then spoke from Jeremiah, her text being, "Seeketh thou great things for thyself?"

We are glad to report that our Corps Cadet Brigade is doing well under the leadership of Corps Cadet Guardian Sheriff.

Major Habkirk Conducts Fruitful Campaign

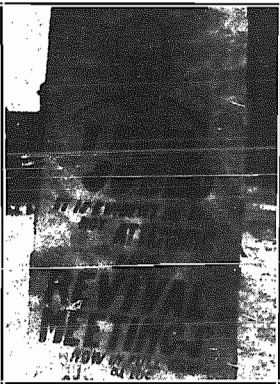

Lieut. Marshall. The weekend Meetings, January 10 and 11, were conducted by Major Habkirk. God's presence was felt all day on Sunday and at the conclusion of the Salvation Meeting, seven souls gave themselves to God. Three others left the Meeting under deep conviction.

On the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Major Habkirk and Lieutenant Marshall held Meetings at Eastend, which were of great blessing to the people. Returning to Shaunavon on Thursday, the Major conducted the night Meeting, when we had the pleasure of seeing three more souls seek Salvation.—B.H.

Four Seekers—Successful Home League Sale

Ensign Yetman and Lieut. Young. On Monday evening, January 19, we had a very successful Home League Sale. The goods were auctioned by Band Leader Gascoigne of the No. 1

A striking Campaign poster displayed by Adjutant Huband at Fort William recently, and—

Corps. Everything was disposed of and a good sum raised. The No. 1 Citadel Band and Comrades united with us on this occasion and helped to make the Sale a great success.

The following Sunday we had a good day. The evening Meeting was well attended and one soul volunteered for Christ. Three more came out before the Meeting closed. A beautiful spirit prevails at our Corps and we are believing that a mighty revival will come this way.—Sec. E. B. Varty.

Two Seekers at Edson

Captain Tobin and Lieut. Thomson. Sunday was a day of victory in Edson. In the Holiness Meeting the Captain took the lesson and his words were an inspiration to us all and filled us with a greater desire to fight on.

At night an Open-Air was held and on our arrival at the Hall found it well filled for the inside Meeting. The Lieutenant delivered the message, and in the Prayer Meeting a sister Comrade, one for whom we have been praying, came forward and after a hard struggle claimed the victory. A Corps Cadet also came forward for a deeper experience.—N.B.

Stirring Campaign results in Many Surrenders—Fifty-one Seekers Claim Victory and Six New Soldiers are Enrolled

The visit of Lieut.-Colonel and Mrs. McLean was a time of great inspiration and throughout the whole Campaign the power of God was very manifest. The first shot was fired on Sunday, January 18, when, after a stirring Holiness address by the Colonel the invitation was given and a young lad responded. Others followed, until there were nine souls kneeling at the Cross.

In the afternoon Free and Easy Meeting, six Comrades were enrolled as Soldiers, and when the invitation was again given, ten souls claimed the victory. For the night Salvation Meeting the Hall was well filled, and the faith of the Comrades ran high. Gospel truths gripped the hearts of many, and when the Prayer-Meeting came, thirteen more precious souls knelt at the Mercy-Seat.

On Monday night, the Officers and Comrades from the No. III Corps, together with their Band, came to our help. Mrs. McLean read the Scriptures and her words of exhortation found a lodging place in many hearts. The Colonel's words also brought conviction to many in the audience. Four souls decided for Christ.

On Tuesday night we were reinforced by the Comrades of the No. I Corps and the building was filled to capacity. Another rousing Meeting followed and five souls yielded themselves to the claims of the Saviour.

The presence of Staff-Captain Jaynes from Victoria added interest to the Meeting on Wednesday night. His singing and talks were right to the point. The Colonel's address followed, and during the Prayer-Meeting seven more captures were made for the Master.

Thursday night was the last night of the Campaign. There was a crowded Hall, it being the night when the Colonel gave his popular lecture, "Miracles, past and present." This consisted of an account of remarkable cases of conversion. Some were humorous, while others were full of pathos—but all exhibited the power of God to save. The Meeting closed with two souls at the Mercy-Seat, making a total of fifty-one seekers in all—twelve for Salvation, and thirty-nine for Sanctification.—T.T.T.

Enrollment of Soldiers—One Seeker

Ensign and Mrs. Acton. On Wednesday we held our Annual Soldiers' Tea. There was a good attendance and the roll was called. Mrs. Major Habkirk outlined the "Win Another" Campaign, and the special Meetings to be held during the month. The Comrades pledged themselves to support the Meetings wholeheartedly.

Hall Overflows with Crowds—Eight Converts Made

Captain Chalk and Lieut. Renas. Since the Native Congress we have had some grand times. Our Hall is full to overflowing at almost every Meeting and eight souls recently came to the Cross for Salvation. These are keeping true to God and we hope in the near future to have a large enrollment of Soldiers.

Our Divisional Commander, Staff-Captain Carruthers, was with us recently, and while here commissioned the Local Officers for this year. We had a real Hallelujah Testimony Meeting, as one will witness only in a native Indian Corps.

Our Open-Airs are attracting large crowds, and as we march back to the Hall, many follow. It keeps our Welcome Sergeant busy placing the crowds who come to the Hall.—C.

Progress at The Pas

Captain Swartz and Lieut. Redburn. God is richly blessing us in the Cottage Meetings that we have been holding and the Comrades have all been drawn nearer to God by the heart to heart talks of our Officers. One dear sister whom we have been praying for for a long time surrendered herself to God and claimed Salvation in one of these Meetings.

Our Home League began the year with renewed vigor, and we are hard at work preparing for a Sale to be held in the near future. At our Soldiers' Tea recently, which was presided over by our Officers, we had a very happy time together.

We have welcomed Corps Cadet Maud Kerr from Winnipeg. She has come to reside with her parents, and already she is proving a blessing to the Corps. Our Company Meeting is increasing.—E.F.J.

Corps in Good Fighting Trim

Captain and Mrs. Tanner. The past weekend witnessed an outpouring of the Holy Spirit in our midst. The Comrades were wonderfully helped and blessed, and we rejoiced over one soul for Salvation, and four for the blessing of a clean heart. Our Corps is in good fighting trim, and each branch is doing its utmost to extend the Kingdom of God.

Our Y. P. Band is getting on well under the splendid Leadership of Bandmaster Cecil Kerr. They are now working on new music, which will be of great help. The Home League, under Sister Ramsay is doing well. Although not great in numbers, each member is very faithful. The last Sale which the Home League put on was a great success. The Junior Company Meetings are also progressing well. In spite of the very cold weather, the children attend the Companies regularly. Special mention should be made of Sister Mrs. Denbigh's Sand Tray class. These little tots are doing splendidly.

Our sick Comrade, Sister Mrs. Robinson, is very much missed as she has not been in our midst for a long time. She has been a great sufferer for many years.

Cottage Meetings are held every week in the homes of the different Comrades and friends. These are proving a wonderful help.—C.C.

Two Seekers at Fort

Frances

Ensign and Mrs. McEachern. Sunday was a day of blessing and rejoicing. In the Salvation Meeting at night God came very near and two hungry souls found satisfaction in Christ. One of these had been a backslider for fifteen years.

The Life-Saving Guards and Soldiers of the Corps recently met at the home of one of the Comrades where the evening was much enjoyed. We have now fourteen Guards.

At the Home League Meeting on January 14, Sister Mrs. Woods was appointed Secretary and Mrs. Scott was appointed Recording Secretary. The following week a very happy time was spent at the Home League and much work was accomplished. We all enjoyed the duet of Sisters Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Ably, accompanied by the guitar. The solo by Sister Mrs. Evers was also very much appreciated.—A.E.W.

Indian Head

Captain Lock and Lieut. Morgan. Our Corps was favored with a three day's visit from our Divisional Commander, Major J. Habkirk. On the Sunday, the Major's message was very inspiring and helpful. On the Monday night, the Major gave some extracts from his diary. This proved very interesting to all. Throughout the three days, God continually poured out His Spirit in blessing and great conviction was felt in the hearts of many.

Swan River

Ensign Pearson and Lieut. Law. On Tuesday, January 20, a very enjoyable time was spent, when about one hundred children and friends rallied together for a very enjoyable supper, after which a very happy time was spent together.

We are pleased to have our Officers around with us again, and things are moving on to victory here in Swan River.—A.B.

Its companion. Each tells its own story.

Envoy Peacock, Bandmaster Henderson, Sister B. Smith, Cradle-Roll Sergeant, and Cadet E. Symons all spoke, representing the various departments of the Corps.

On Sunday, the Kneedrill and Holiness Meeting were well attended, and Catherine Moffatt, the little daughter of Brother and Sister Jarvie, was dedicated by Mrs. Major Habkirk.

Sunday evening we had an enrollment of Soldiers, and one seeker came forward in the Prayer-Meeting.

BELLA THOMPSON:

A Miracle in the Making

SUMMARY OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

The story opens in a Scottish seaport town. Bella was an orphan girl who lived with her grandparents. She was sent to work at an early age and soon earned a "take a wee drap" of whisky to bring comfort to her. One day she went to the local tavern on an errand. "It was only one wee drap," she took.

But it was one drop too many and she was noticeably the worse for liquor when she arrived home. Her visits to the tavern were repeated, and one day she met a man who lured her into evil courses. In her sorrow and despair she went home to her grandmother and sobbed out her confession.

Later on she went to Edinburgh where, as a result of the drunken frolic of some students, she got pushed into an excavation as a result of which she lost an arm. Kind friends came to her help and for a time she was happy in domestic service. Then she went on a holiday to the seashore where she met a very undesirable companion. Now read on.

CHAPTER IV

Pariahs of the Night

ON Bella's return to Edinburgh, from sundry words dropped, her friends had a shrewd suspicion of the character of their charge's sea-side companion.

To be perfectly fair to Bella, however, it must be stated that she did not know the kind of woman with whom she had consorted. Some of our readers may be disposed to take this piece of information with a grain of salt. We have seen Bella Thompson, and taken the trouble to cross-question her, and are convinced of her absolute innocence in this particular.

One day a letter came, addressed to Bella Thompson, and the Matron of the Home where she lived, acting, we suppose, solely in Bella's interest, kept the letter back, for she was afraid of the sender's influence upon the one in whom she was so deeply interested.

Gave Her the Slip

Whether Bella found out about the letter or no, the fact remains that shortly after this, when she had received her month's money, while passing along the streets of Edinburgh in company with the Assistant Matron, awaiting a favorable moment, she made off in another direction.

"I gave her the slip," is the way Bella herself tells the simple truth, without attempting in the slightest degree to justify her action.

All the Assistant Matron knew about the matter was that one minute Bella was at her side, and the next, when she turned to look for her, she was gone, and for long bitter years, Bella never looked upon the face of those who vainly sought her good.

"Where did you go?" we inquired. "I went straight tae Glasca," she replied.

We draw a veil over the blotted pages of Bella Thompson's Edinburgh career. Little by little she had been drawn aside from the right way. She was alone and unhelped, and no one spoke to her of eternal things.

As we have suggested, Edinburgh had been as the place of lost souls to Bella Thompson; and though she kept on with her duties, she had long passed through the portals above which the legend of Dante might well have been written.

What we have said about Edinburgh may be said with variation, and modification, and addition, about Glasgow, in so far as Bella was concerned. If any who read this have any doubt concerning the depths to which a soul can sink, let them interrogate the Officers of the Women's Social Work of The Salvation Army who toil amid continents of shame, and vice, and misery in order to rescue poor, battered, and broken women from sinking finally into the depth of the sea of sorrow.

Another Great Adventure

Having given her escort "the slip," Bella hurried to the station, and very soon found herself on her way to the Clyde-side metropolis. It was another great adventure, and the realism of it was for the time being a support to her, and she needed support, for she soon began to realize the risky nature of the foolish undertaking upon which she had embarked.

By the time she stepped out of the station she was in a bad case, and in a wilder condition. Finding herself in such a state, what more natural for her to try and find comfort in a "wee drap" once more!

Entering a whisky shop, she ordered a glass of the liquor, and drank it off neat. The fire of it seemed to enter into her very bones, stimulating her to action, and for the moment giving a new complexion to life.

With some of her all too few remaining shillings she purchased a bottle of whiskey to take to her friend, just by way of a cordial introduction.

Bella experienced some difficulty in discovering her friend's whereabouts, but at last she found her in one of the very lowest quarters of the city.

Happy Sea-side Memories

They greeted each other effusively, and their meeting was celebrated in a convivial way. Bella was so glad to have found the one with whom were associated so many happy sea-side memories, that she did not demur when her companion drank her health again, and again, and again!

It occurred to Bella that the district in which she found herself was a very unlovely one, to say the least, and that the women and children were not only poor, but insufficiently clad, and of unwholesome appearance.

As the shadow of night came down over the city this realization grew upon her, and now and then the tattered figure of a woman with a shawl scarcely covering her rain-sodden hair shambled past through the mud with shoddy feet, staggering along and breathing out curses upon any one who dared to impede her progress.

By this time Bella began to realize how different her friend could be when inflamed with drink. With her eyes alight with anger, she was inclined to quarrel with everything and everybody, and even Bella came in for some of her vituperation.

Whatever should she do? She had nowhere to stay but in the sordid rooms of her drunken companion.

For one moment it came to her that it would be the right thing to return to the Home in Edinburgh, and there pray for forgiveness.

But a strange shrinking filled her heart, and, sink or swim, she made up her mind to endure the miseries of her present ill-fortune rather than return and listen to a single word of rebuke, and perhaps be laughed at for her foolishness.

Since that fateful night Bella Thompson had wished thousands of times that she had obeyed that impulse, for had she done so she might, in all probability, have remained with her friends, and the darkest pages of her life would never have been written.

The hour was growing late; many kinds of rowdism were rampant, and Bella, who went out into the dimly-lighted streets, saw dark shadows flitting hither and thither. Now and then she saw the police, who invariably walked in pairs, for the district was noted for its "characters," and big and strong as the constables were, a rule it was not a healthy experience for them to tramp the beat alone.

Yet in that very quarter, and other quarters like it, the Slum Officers of The Army pass up and down, and while they do so they are greeted in a kind, and even affectionate, way by many of the women and children.

Likewise, the Officers of The Army Home for Women are well known and greatly respected. Their services are requisitioned for all kinds of purposes. They are sometimes called upon to adjudicate when a free fight is in progress, or to help the victim of chronic alcoholism. They always have plenty of defenders, for the women not only know them to be fair in their judgment, but they recognize that their hearts are in the right place; nor is this surprising, for they have daily and nightly given evidence of the fact.

With or Without Money

"With or without money for a night's lodging, providing the need is a real one and the 'case' is not a deliberate imposition upon good nature, it is admitted," said the Women's Social Officer who has had much to do with the redemption of Bella Thompson, and others of her like.

This is a true declaration, as every woman in The Army's Metropole in Glasgow could testify, though the fact is not proclaimed upon the house-tops, or the lodging-money might go in whiskey, gin, or even methylated spirits.

That dreadful first evening Bella lost her friend before the hour of midnight. The police, it appears, arrested her, and, being a regular offender, she had to go to prison for thirty days.

The quiet way the arrest was effected, and the slight sensation it caused, was a revelation to Bella Thompson, who was now beginning to learn some of the bitter experiences of the life of a social pariah.

Not daring to return to Edinburgh, and without a friend in the world, she spent some miserable days, and more miserable nights, in Glasgow, wandering aimlessly up and down with her heart aching for a kind word and hungering for a friendly face. Like a lost soul doomed to wander for ever in the shades, she walked the streets footsore and weary.

A Sad Procession

From lodging home to lodging home she went. The step having been taken, it seemed to her there was nothing else left for her but to march on and on in the sad procession of broken-hearted women.

Let those prone to pass hasty judgment be assured that in those days Bella found many among the unhappy sisterhood of the streets who were willing to do a good turn to even the most "down and out" of their own class.

This fact, too, is confirmed by the Officers of the Women's Social Work, who pay tribute to all the erring women they get into contact with in many quarters; though, it should be noted, not all the women are wayward.

"If ever I want my faith strengthened I go to my poor women," said an Officer to us with tears in her eyes.

"Sometimes when I stand and look at them o' nights when they are in bed asleep, and understand that these are at any rate safe in our blessed Salvation Army Harbor, though I realize our work is but a drop in the ocean compared with what could and ought to be done if we had the funds available with which to do it, yet I praise God for it; and as I stand there it seems almost as though I can see the Lord Himself and hear Him say, 'Did you ever give an erring sister a helping hand? Did you ever help a fallen sister? Did you ever help with your last piece of bread when you were famishing in order to stay the misery of a sister who was suffering from the dreadful pangs of the "whiskey hunger"?' And though I trust I have done, and shall continue to do, my humble best, yet as I have looked upon their sleeping forms, knowing what they have sacrificed for each other, I have to bow my head and say, 'No, Lord, I have not, but with Thy help I will learn of these. Thy poor, sinful, broken-hearted "little ones," and give all my energies as never before to help stem the terrible tide of iniquity which is carrying so many to their doom.' Then it has been that a great peace has come into my soul, and I have gone to my rest strengthened and with a new conception of duty filling my heart."

Port Arthur Home League

The Home League is getting along well at this Corps. Recently we held the annual Home League Sale of Work which netted over $100.00. The Y. P. Legion had a candy and fancy work stall which brought in $20.00.

The members of the Home League recently met at supper. This was followed by a pleasant evening's program. Both the Captain and Mrs. Stevenson take a great interest in the Home League, which is at present a most prosperous department of the Corps, and Sister Mrs. Elsey and her band of workers are to be congratulated.—"Observer."

A Comrade who is now an enrolled Soldier of the Grande Prairie Corps was won for God whilst on his rounds delivering milk. Calling at the Officers' Quarters one day he was faithfully dealt with about his soul with the result that he got soundly converted and is now passing on to others the good news of Salvation.

Calgary I Notes

Ten Claim deliverance—New Songster Brigade—Live Y.P. Meetings—Twenty-seven new Soldiers in six months.

Captain and Mrs. Collier. Since the commencement of the New Year we can say God has been wonderfully near in our Corps, bringing Salvation to many and leading His own people forth. We can report that numbers are keeping up well.

On a recent week-end we were very glad to have a visit from Major and Mrs. Penfold. The Saturday night Meeting took the form of a bright free-and-easy and all day Sunday the Spirit of God was with us, owning and blessing the efforts, which resulted in two soldiers. Throughout the Meetings Mrs. Penfold's solos were the help. The Major spent the afternoon in the Company Meeting where the boys and girls gave him a real welcome.

Last week-end's Meetings were led by our Commanding Officers when splendid gatherings were held. In the Holiness Meeting three claimed the blessing of Holiness which they felt they so much needed. The Salvation Meeting was a powerful one when the message "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper," we feel went home to many. At the close of the day we rejoiced over nine souls, making a total of twenty this month. The power of God is certainly breaking sinners' chains and men and women are claiming deliverance.

A feature of the Sunday night Meeting was the appearance of our newly formed Songster Brigade, numbering twenty-five, all uniformed, under the leadership of Bandsman W. Garrett.

On Jan. 22nd, the Commissioning of our Local Officers took place, when 118 Commissions were handed out, 35 of this number being for the Junior Corps. Appropriate Bible Readings, Selections, solos, etc., were given. Mention might be made of the fine Meetings conducted on Monday nights by the Young People. These are full of interest, bright and lively, and are well attended. So far this year on each Monday souls have been won. This week after the Meeting had closed we had the joy of pointing a sinner to Christ.

We have welcomed the late Songsters Butler and White from Canada East and we feel sure they will prove active Soldiers of Calgary 1.

Our energetic Officers take a great interest in all departments of the Corps and during the last six months we have been gladdened by seeing twenty-seven new Soldiers enrolled under the Colors.—F.E.B.

Fifty-Two Children Seek the Saviour at Winnipeg IV

Adjutant and Mrs. Okerstrom. The Meetings on Sunday at the Scandinavian Corps were conducted by the Corps Officers, and a good send-off to the "Win Another" Campaign resulted. At the Company Meeting in the afternoon when the invitation was given for decisions, no less than fifty-two scholars responded by coming to the Penitent-Form. Many of the young seekers were of the "teen age."

Winnipeg Men's Social

A bright Salvation Meeting was conducted with the men on Sunday night, Major Allen being in charge. During

Promoted to Glory SISTER MRS. HANNETT, LETHBRIDGE

Four Surrenders at Memorial Service

Another trophy of grace has gone to the Mansion above. Sister Mrs. Hannett passed peacefully away on January 6, in the Galt Hospital, after a short period of illness. Our departed Comrade, after her conversion, was a faithful warrior of Jesus Christ, attending all the Open-Airs and Meetings in all weathers.

The funeral service was held in the Citadel on Friday afternoon. A good number of Soldiers gathered to pay their last tribute to our departed Sister, and the Band, under Bandmaster Hardy, rendered appropriate music. Mrs. Adjutant Marsland soloed, "My Home is There." Mrs. Envoy Dawson also took part in the service. The Adjutant closed this solemn gathering with a short but earnest message and a brief service was held at the grave-side.

On the following Sunday a Memorial service was held in the presence of a good congregation, all the Comrades of the Corps wearing white arm bands. Sister Mrs. Hardy and Secretary Mrs. Tullock spoke feelingly of our late Comrade's consistent life. They also made touching references to their visits to her bedside in the Hospital, and her assurance of meeting the Lord. Y.P.S.-M. Mrs. Taylor and Captain Christie also took part. The audience rose to their feet as the Band played "To Rest in Glory."

The Adjutant delivered a stirring message to the people, and at the close of the service, one woman came forward to the Mercy-Seat, followed by the daughter of our late Comrade. Two others also came forward to consecrate their lives afresh to God.—Envoy.

SISTER MRS. SLIPPE, VERNON

Recently at Dresden, Ont., there passed away an old Comrade named Mrs. Slippe. She was a faithful Soldier for a number of years, having spent a great deal of her Soldier days in England and Vernon, B. C., where she was well known and much loved for her faithful labors.

During the early part of last summer, owing to sickness, our Comrade moved to the town of Dresden, Ont., where she lived with her daughter about two miles out in the country.

Our Comrade was quite a sufferer but her patient endurance and beautiful spirit was a marked blessing to all who visited her in the home. On the last morning, just a little while before she passed away, she said to Ensign Tucker, the Officer of the Corps, that she was trusting and looking for the Lord to take her Home.

She was given an Army funeral. At the Memorial Service held on the following Sunday one young man found peace.

the Prayer-Meeting, one soul surrendered to Christ. Several of the men staying at the Men's Hostel of late have been converted, and these are endeavoring to maintain a firm stand for God.

Eastern Review

Toronto I's new Citadel, situated at the corner of Queen and Tecumseh Streets, was opened and publicly dedicated by Commissioner Souton on January 24. The Citadel is a splendid brick structure with accommodation for 400 Soldiers and 300 Young People. Brigadier Jennings, as head of the Property Department, was responsible for its erection. The initial Sunday's Meetings led by Commissioner and Mrs. Souton in the new building were graciously blessed of God and resulted in twenty-eight surrenders. Toronto's first Corps was opened in 1882.

Three more Canada East Officers have been accepted for foreign service. They are Captain and Mrs. Welbourn and Captain Leonard Evenden. These Comrades are due to leave Vancouver on March 6 for Peking, and will there take a special course of instruction in the language before proceeding to specific appointments.

Forty-five souls surrendered on a recent Sunday at Brantford during a Campaign conducted by Major and Mrs. Kendall. Many sought the blessing of Full Salvation while reconciliations and heart confessions were freely made. The whole Corps was aroused.

A busy weekend Campaign at the Hamilton II Corps recently conducted by Commissioner and Mrs. Souton resulted in thirteen surrenders being made. On the Sunday the Commissioner was in a rejoicing mood and recalled the fact that thirty-six years ago that day, Mrs. Souton and himself were married in Norway.

At the opening of the "Win Another" Campaign in Hamilton, Bermuda, the crowd could not be accommodated. Three Soldiers were enrolled and two people sought Salvation. The Half-night of Prayer resulted in fifteen for consecration and four for Salvation.

The inauguration of Hamilton II Corps' "Win Another" Campaign was featured by a striking torchlight procession through the streets.

Three hundred unemployed and needy are being accommodated in the Toronto Hostels and Institutions.

A number of men, the recipients of free meal tickets, attended the Temple during the "Twelve Hours with the King" Meeting held at a recent Sunday. Three men volunteered to the Mercy-Seat.

In the sketch of Ensign Saunders recently appeared in the columns we stated that she opened the Temple. We have learned since that it was Mrs. Ensign Shaw (then Captain in English) who opened this Corps, assisted by Lieut. Saunders.
